

Issue 8
Labouring-Class Writing

Contents:

Editors' Preface

Guest Editors' Introduction: Retrieval and Beyond: Labouring-Class Writing
- Tim Burke and John Goodridge

Brute Strength: Labouring-Class Studies and Animal Studies - Donna Landry

Close Reading Yearsley - David Fairer

Not So Lowly Bards: Working-Class Women Poets and Middle-Class Expectations
- Florence Boos

*Genre Matters: Attending to Form and Convention in Eighteenth-Century
Labouring-Class Poetry* - William J. Christmas

Ecocriticism - Anne Milne

The Rise of Robert Bloomfield - Scott McEathron

*The Foresters: Alexander Wilson's Transatlantic Labouring-Class Nature
Poetry* - Bridget Keegan

'Tracing the Ramifications of the Democratic Principle': Literary Criticism and Theory in the Chartist Circular - Mike Sanders

Labour History by Other Means - Jonathan Rose

Graphic Bric-a-brac: Comic Visual Culture and the Study of Early Victorian Lower-Class Urban Culture - Brian Maidment

* * *

Language and Locale: John Locke, Somerset and Plain Style - Olivia Smith

Institutional Culture as Whiteness: 'a complex argument' - John Higgins

Reviews

Raymond Williams Foundation